

drawers

ERIKA'S PICK

"These flexible squeeze cups make it easier to pour liquid into your stand mixer without half of it ending up on the counter."

—ERIKA

BILLY'S PICK

CASEY'S PICK

worthy splurge

MARISA'S PICK

Serious bargain

MARISA'S PICK

ASHLEY'S PICK

EMILY'S PICK

BILLY'S PICK

"This is the best garlic press I've ever used."

—MARISA

2-IN-1 CITRUS SQUEEZER You really do get more juice out of lemons when you use a squeezer, and the Amco Houseworks version has a built-in lime situation, too. $15 at bedbathandbeyond.com

SILICONE MEASURING CUPS These nesting Flex-it cups make it easy to pour into narrow openings. And because they bend, they squish into shallow drawers and tight corners. $25 for the 3-piece set at williams-sonoma.com

COOKIE SCOOPS Oxo Good Grips scoops are great for portioning everything from cookies to meatballs. $13 to $15 each (depending on size) at bedbathandbeyond.com

SAFETY GLOVE Perhaps not the sexiest gift, but slicing your fingers with a mandoline is even less sexy. Microplane's cut-resistant glove is thin enough to grip food while protecting digits. No one bleeds; everyone wins! $15 at surlatable.com

MANDOLINE There are much fancier mandolines, but the basic Benriner is one your gift recipient will turn to again and again. It fits in the drawer and is easy to use. $24 at amazon.com

GARLIC PRESS In this Tomorrow's Kitchen model, pins push garlic through the screen, and a sliding scraper helps get every last bit of garlicky goodness. $18 at amazon.com

MAGNETIC SPOONS Prepworks by Progressive measuring spoons have a standard round end plus a narrower end to fit into spice jars, a flat base that keeps them level on the counter, and magnets that keep them nestled neatly together without a cumbersome ring. $20 for the 5-piece set at amazon.com

THERMOMETER The ThermoWorks ThermoPop instant-read digital thermometer comes in hot colors that make it easy to spot in your gadget drawer. $29 at thermoworks.com